Oppose Transfer of The State
Police to Motorist-Supported
Motor Fund

FIRST SALVOS ARE FIRED

Pennsylvania Motor Federation
Vigorously Opposes
The Move

By A. Norman Gage
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 4—(INS)—Pennsylvania motorists, whose two-year bill for gasoline taxes and licenses will be increased by $5,000,000 during the 1937-39 biennium, are mobilizing for an attack on Gov. George H. Earle's proposed $510,000,000 budget.

The first salvos already have been fired by officials of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, protesting against the transfer of the State Police to the motorist-supported motor fund, but additional ammunition is being gathered for a final, frontal assault.

Opposition of organized motorists, as in the past, is based on provisions interpreted as diverting motor fund revenues for the general operating expenses of the state government. Anticipation of such opposition was one of the reasons for the proposed reduction from $2 to $1 in the annual operator's license fee. This step was decided upon by administration fiscal experts as a substitute for reduction or elimination of the extra cent added to the gasoline tax two years ago.

Sudden Death Occurs For Peter M. Larrisey

Sudden death occurred yesterday afternoon for Peter M. Larrisey, at his residence, 350 Lafayette street. Death is attributed to a heart attack.

Although not enjoying good health for some time, Mr. Larrisey had been able to continue his duties at the home of Bucks Lodge, L. O. O. M., where he had been employed for some time. Yesterday was a holiday from his duties, and he passed the day at home. At about two p. m., while in his bedroom he was suddenly stricken. A physician was summoned, but death occurred before the physician arrived.

The deceased was the husband of Ellen Burns Larrisey. In addition to his wife, a sister, and two sons, James and Panton Larrisey survive.

Mr. Larrisey was a native of England, but had made his home in Bristol for many years.

The funeral will occur on Saturday morning at eight o'clock from the late home of the deceased, with Solemn Mass of Requiem at St. Mark's Church at nine o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE MEETINGS ARRANGED

To Be Conducted Tomorrow
In Doylestown High School;
No General Session

The second meeting of the combined Bucks County Institute and Teachers' Association is to be conducted tomorrow in the Doylestown high school.

The program calls for sectional meetings to begin at 10 o'clock in the various class rooms of the high school. The teachers will be directed to their respective groups by students affiliated with the high school student council. No general meeting is to be called.

Each of the 20 sections of the Teachers' Association will have two programs, except in the case of the home economics group, which will meet in the morning session only.

The school librarians have arranged a morning program to include teacher librarians, the afternoon program will be for full-time librarians only.

Doylestown High School cafeteria will provide luncheon for those teachers who desire it. A recess of an hour and 45 minutes has been arranged on all programs.

Since this is an institute program, teachers in attendance will be reimbursed by local school districts at the rate of $2 per day.

Supervising Principal J. Leonard Halderman, for the convenience of the county teachers, has arranged the following sectional room schedule:

Upper Bucks Rural section, third floor, Room A. Upper Bucks Primary, second floor, Room 37. Lower Bucks Intermediate, third floor, Room B. Lower Bucks Primary, third floor, Room F.

High School English, third floor, Room C. High School Social Studies, third floor, Room E. High school math-science, Room L in the morning and Room H in the afternoon. ## BABY HATS ARE IN RING EARLY FOR THE FAVORITE BABY ELECTION; TINY VOTE GETTERS ARE OUT FOR TITLE

Supporters Flock for the Battle of Ballots That is Spreading
Throughout the Countryside — Interest
Reaches All Neighborhoods

Moving along with the smoothness of seasoned campaigners with plenty of confidence and the backing of their respective legions of friends, are the babies of the community vying for the honor of being chosen to wear the crown of the favorite Baby election sponsored by leading merchants and The Bristol Courier.

Today finds the little hats of reigning favorites in the ring, and finds their supporters flocking to their support in the battle of ballots that is spreading throughout the countryside and reaching even into neighboring communities.

A silver cup, a crown symbolic of the greatest honor that can be bestowed on any child in the community and that will thrill any mother's heart, cash award, if used as a bank account would provide an educational advantage probably more desirable in this manner than through any other medium, and the glory and honor of leading the baby parade to the finish line are some of the things which are making the baby election the outstanding event in the community's recent history.

Merchants who have provided other good things for the people of this territory and who have pledged their fortunes to see the community succeed, are principally active in the battle of votes. They have them and you only have to ask for them to put your favorite that much ahead in the standing which will be published regularly each week.

Certainly you have had no difficulty in picking one or more favorites from the beaming and beautiful faces that have looked at you from the columns of this newspaper. Perhaps your favorite baby's picture has not appeared. It will if it is entered and a picture has been submitted. The pictures of all active campaigners will be published as space permits and recognition will be given the activity being put forth in each baby's behalf.

The announcement that quadruple coupons turned in by April 10 (including the ones already in) has stepped things up even faster than before and spurred the baby adherents to even greater enthusiasm in gathering the precious little pink pasteboards and casting them for their favorite little ones. The merchant coupons will be credited 400 votes each instead of just one hundred votes as is printed upon the face. One coupon now counts as many votes as FOUR coupons will count under the regular schedule.

Don't forget that the campaign is just now beginning to show who the real favorites are and that your opportunity to enter your favorite or work for one already entered was never better than RIGHT NOW. Get into the election of our Community's favorite baby today. You'll enjoy the election immensely!

STUDENTS PRESENT A PATRIOT'S PROGRAM

Bath Street School Pupils Include Minuet in Production

TEACHER IS THE COACH

After a recent discussion on citizenship it was decided by grade seven at Bath street, to present a play showing patriotism and loyalty, and in keeping with the recent holiday season.

The minuet was selected and staged yesterday afternoon.

Those taking part: William Delia as Elijah Thomas; Margaret Brownlee as his wife; Frances Tomlinson, his daughter, Leslie Wallace, his son; Leonard Bobbs, French dancing-master; Edward Stetson, young patriot; Catherine Daniels, Walter Baynes, Mary Davis, guests; Thomas Goodnow, Arthur Neill, Leonard Angus, soldiers; Gertrude Brown, servant.

The costumes were made and designed by the children. The figures of the minuet were written by Frances Tomlinson. The entire cast was coached by Miss E. Aileen Cottingham. The play is to be repeated at the May meeting of the Mothers' Association.

STRANGE COINCIDENCE

ST. HELENS, Ore.—(INS)—While cleaning a vault in the McCormick mill of old records, R. H. Fairburn drew out a pile of cancelled checks wrapped with a rubber band. George Seagert, mill employee, walked into the room just as the rubber band around the old checks broke. One of them fluttered to the ground at his feet. He picked it up and found it was a cancelled check for wages drawn to himself in December, 1916.

Bristol

What a master for a dog, what a boy to steal your heart, what a candidate to win a crown, and what a day to make an announcement of such intentions! That's why Kenneth Van Dine comes to the front so early and faces you with smiling, yet fearless eyes and childish trust and asks you to come under his banner for the baby parade, which he hopes to lead from now on. The proud parents can't deny any of the following facts, for while they are modest folks, they must admit that this boy is a prospective winner. Kenneth is the one year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Van Dine, 627 Swain St., Bristol. Mrs. Harriet Enoch, 493 Pond street, Bristol, who is Kenneth's grandmother and Mrs. Anthony Shores, his great-grandmother, are very proud of their little grandson.

INCREASE SHOWN IN MARRIAGE LICENSES

Nineteen More Issued at Office of Clerk of Orphans' Court of Bucks County

TOTAL OF 88 ISSUED

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 4—February showed an increase in business over the same month in 1936 in the marriage license business, according to the official docket at the office of the Clerk of Orphans' Court of Bucks county.

During the month of February this year exactly 88 marriage licenses were granted compared to 69 in February last year. Eighty-eight licenses granted in 24 days is not considered bad business, according to Miss Eleanor

LOCATE "RINGING ROCKS" IN BUCKS, MONTGOMERY AND CHESTER COUNTIES

As the result of a series of studies made by the Bureau of Topographic and Geologic Survey in the Department of Internal Affairs, seven areas were found in Pennsylvania where ringing rocks exist, Secretary of Internal Affairs Thomas A. Logue said today at Harrisburg.

Ringing rocks give off a musical note when struck a quick blow with a hammer or other implement. In Pennsylvania they are all one kind of rocks, a diabase or trap rock that was injected in a molten condition as sheets and dikes in the red Triassic sandstones and shales between Easton and Gettysburg.

At each of the ringing rock localities, only a small proportion of the rocks will ring. Observation has disclosed that the rocks that ring are supported in such a way that they vibrate freely. A bell must be suspended so that it will vibrate freely if it is to ring well. So with these rocks, they must have few points of contact. A thin slab wedged in between others and in contact at several points will not ring, but another of the same shape and size that is held in place only at one end or side will emit a pleasing note when struck.

Secretary Logue located the seven areas of ringing rocks in Pennsylvania as follows:

Bell Company Making Improvements at Doylestown

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 4—The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has begun work on a $13,200 equipment replacement and construction project in this section, it was announced today by Alfred B. Hennessy, district manager.

"This expenditure," he said, "has been made necessary by the increasing demand for telephone service in the Doylestown central office area. The facilities now in use already exceed those used during the pre-depression peak. Work will be completed in September or early October of this year."

Mr. Hennessy explained that the program includes the placing of more than 3700 feet of underground cable designed to carry 606 pairs of wire and 18,000 feet of storm-resisting aerial cable. In addition, 3 new man-holes will be constructed.

"Upon the completion of the project," Mr. Hennessy stated, "the company will remove from service 10,292 feet of cable."

WORKMAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT IN 40-FOOT FALL

John Noone, 39, Pemberton,
N. J., Falls From Pole
Here This Morning

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

An employee of the Philadelphia Electric Company was seriously injured this morning when he fell a distance of 40 feet, while at work atop a pole near Washington and Pond streets.

The injured: John Noone, aged 39, Pemberton, N. J.

Noone was taken to the Harriman Hospital where X-ray pictures were taken to determine the exact injuries. At the hospital it was stated he is suffering from a compound comminuted fracture of the right elbow, suspected fracture of the skull, injuries of an undetermined type of the spinal column.

The accident occurred shortly before eight o'clock.

None, who is single, stated that he had loosened his safety belt to change his position over some wires. He explained to physicians who attended him, that he had fastened his spurs and brace into the pole, but was of the opinion that a knot prevented a spur from taking firm hold.

The injured man was taken to the hospital by his fellow-workmen.

Noone is employed by the company as a supervisor of linemen.

EDGELY

The Headley Manor Fire Company answered a call on Tuesday at the Edgely School. The high grass had caught fire and was extinguished before any damage was done.

STATE NEWS

FRANKLIN—(INS)—"Jim" Borland, 76, has begun his sixtieth year as publisher of the Franklin "News Herald," which he founded in February of 1878. At the age of 16 he printed his first page on an old "army" press.

"Get the news today, but keep it accurate and clean," has been his motto.

Though the years have slowed up his activities, he still manages to edit a column, supervise the exchanges and act as an encyclopedia for news of yesterday.

The paper which he began 59 years ago with the help of two other youths has yet to miss an edition.

Food Riots in Madrid

London, Mar. 4—Food riots have broken out in beleaguered Madrid, and the food shortage there is becoming critical, the London Daily Telegram reported today in an "uncensored" dispatch from Valencia.

The report said two serious riots occurred in the Spanish capital when residents stood in long "bread lines" for eight hours, waiting for food.

Charge War Material Rushed To Spain

London, Mar. 4—Large supplies of war materials are being rushed to Spain by Germany and Italy, to provide rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco with adequate reserves before the non-intervention control scheme takes effect, according to charges received by British government quarters today.

In a dramatic race against time, shipments of tanks, rifles, machine guns, military planes, bombs and munitions are arriving almost daily at Cadiz, Seville and other Spanish ports controlled by insurgents, according to the charges.

The supplies mostly consist of munitions for General Franco.

Two Burned To Death

New York, Mar. 4—At least two persons were burned to death and several were injured today when a four-alarm fire ravaged four crowded tenements in the heart of the lower East Side.

More than 200 persons were saved. Many were carried down fire ladders as flames crackled through the grimy row of structures.

At one time when the fire was at its worst, terrified tenants were screaming to be rescued. After the blaze had been put out, firemen picking their way through the charred wreckage of one building found two bodies.

Stunt Actress Killed

Pasadena, Cal., Mar. 4—Marcella Arnold, 26, Hollywood stunt woman, was killed, and two others were injured today when an automobile overturned during the filming of a motion picture.

The trio were "doubling" for principals of a Warner Brothers picture, "The Hobo and the Heiress."

G. M. Gives Message

New York, Mar. 4—Employees of the General Motors Corporation were informed today in a message from Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., company president, that settlement of the recent General Motors strike has not altered the determination of the company not to recognize any single union organization as representing all of its workers.

He declared that wage increases granted by the corporation had "nothing to do" with negotiations conducted with the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O. affiliation, prior to the termination of the strikes.

Man of 50 Is Killed

Philadelphia, Mar. 4—An unidentified man, about 50 years old, was found dead on the office stairway of a North Philadelphia dairy.

ASSIST AGED MAN FROM HOME AS ROOF BURNS

Residence of Joseph and Gustave Schoenberg, Midway,
Damaged by Blaze

IGNITED BY SPARKS

Fire, evidently caused by sparks from the chimney, unroofed the residence of Messrs. Joseph and Gustave Schoenberg, Durham Road, Middletown Township, early yesterday afternoon. The latter, an aged man, was given assistance in leaving the burning building.

The house is located near Midway. The brick structure was only slightly damaged, and the furniture was carried outside to places of safety, but the entire roof, of shingles, was destroyed. The extent of the damage has not as yet been determined.

It was at about one p. m., as the two men were at lunch, that they discovered the roof was afire, evidently igniting from sparks from the chimney, a fire having been lighted in the fire-place.

Neighbors were quickly on the scene and fire companies answering the alarm included Bristol Consolidated, Langhorne, Trevose, Hulmeville, Newportville and Newport Terrace.

The interior of the six-room house was damaged by water. The house contains six large rooms.

No insurance is carried on the property, it is stated.

The brothers remained in the property over-night, furniture being moved back into the section not damaged.

COLORED MAN IS UNSUCCESSFUL IN ATTACK ON GIRL

Assailant Breaks Into Bell
Telephone Exchange
At Langhorne

SCARED BY SCREAMS

Miss Blanche Hackett, 22,
Puts Up Vigorous Battle Against Assailant

LANGHORNE, Mar. 4—Authorities are searching for a colored man who early yesterday attempted to attack an operator in the office of the Bell Telephone Company, here, but which attempt proved unsuccessful. The girl's screams and the vigorous battle she waged frightened the man, who turned heels and ran.

It was about 3.15 yesterday morning when Miss Blanche Hackett, 22, of 23 Main street, Yardley, was startled when she saw a colored man using a red handkerchief as a mask walk into the room where she was alone in the Bell Telephone exchange.

The man grabbed Miss Hackett and ripped some of her clothing, but her screams and the vigorous fight she put up held off her assailant until he lost his nerve and ran from the building.

Miss Hackett at once plugged in the switchboard and called the State Highway Patrol who quickly responded. Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo was called and the authorities are investigating the case.

The man had broken a rear window and then forced a door open to gain entrance to the room.

Methodist Conference Considers Merger

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 4—(INS)—Methodist Episcopal Church members today weighed the admonition of one of their officers, Rev. Ralph E. Diefenderfer, that the pending union of the Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant and Methodist Episcopal South churches may call for a reduction in the number of churches to avoid duplication.

Dr. Diefenderfer, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Foreign Missions, predicted at the sesquicentennial session of the Philadelphia M. E. Conference here that the church will build few new churches and no new colleges, schools, missions or hospitals in coming years.

Dr. Diefenderfer termed as "the next great adventure" for the denomination the consolidating of its gains and revitalizing of its membership.

The conference ratified a declaration against war as part of its annual social service report and recommended that "all young people claim exemption from military training, as do members of the Society of Friends."

"We believe that death in a dungeon for conscience's sake makes a larger contribution to the permanent welfare of the Christian estate than death as a conscript in a dugout," the conference asserted.

While commending President Roosevelt for "his sincere efforts to promote peace" it cited a "bold inconsistency" in the leaders of our nation continuing to sanction increased expenditures for armaments.

HULMEVILLE

Card players filled 15 tables at the party sponsored by Neshamony Lodge, 422, I. O. O. F., in the lodge room last evening. The committee in charge included Messrs. Thomas Andrew, Fred Burkholder, and Horace G. Cox. Highest scorers in pinoccios were: E. J. Robertson, 798 Mr. Ganther, 795. Home-made cake and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foster and son Gary have moved from Trenton avenue to Maple Shade, Bristol Township. Visitors on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Cox were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox and son Vincent, and Miss Alita Smith, Bristol.

A visit was paid on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and daughter Helen to Mrs. Thompson's brother, Robert Dunlap, Philadelphia. Jesse C. Everitt represented the Neshamony M. E. Church at the session of the Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal Conference, yesterday.

The name chosen for the monthly fellowship luncheon group, which meets on the first Wednesday of each month in Neshamony M. E. Church, is "The Hulmeville Get-Together Club." Eighteen attended the affair yesterday, hostesses being Mrs. Hugh B. Webster, Mrs. Edward VanArman, and Mrs. D. Adler. Sewing followed the covered-dish luncheon. Hostesses chosen for next month are: Mrs. C. Wesley Haefer, Mrs. John Corrigan and Mrs. Richard A. Hopkins.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

If you are a woman and have that tired feeling after getting up in the morning at seven o'clock, dressing the children, preparing breakfast, washing, ironing, ordering, cleaning, shopping and performing the scores of other tasks your family may require, then heed the words of Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth. Dr. Gilbreth is a consulting engineer, mother of eleven children and has been a devotee of motion study—particularly lost motion—for thirty years.

The American housewife gets tired, points out Dr. Gilbreth, without knowing why. The "simple appreciation of the proper kind of motion in her duties about the home, particularly in the kitchen, would bring about an average saving of 33 per cent in energy."

Discussing her own "laboratory test" to demonstrate that many steps are lost in the cooking of a meal, Dr. Gilbreth said she proved this by attaching a string to housewives while in the kitchen preparing food. The tests invariably showed that housewives had their kitchen been arranged systematically. "When I first started experimenting in housing problems," Dr. Gilbreth declared, "I watched a large number of housewives at work. It occurred to me that the sink in the kitchen should be the proper height to suit the individual and if a woman found it comfortable to wash dishes at this height, why not have the same height for the appliances in ironing, baking, etc.?"

Dr. Gilbreth's suggestion to build a kitchen and its fixtures to fit their user is a step in the right direction, although it would seem to hold some practical difficulties in the face of the moving habits of many American families. It is time, however, that the problem be attacked from the scientific angle. Modern household inventions have lightened much of the work of the housewife, but the basic problem of hundreds of steps a day, and hundreds of tasks, is still unsolved. In the interests of more time for bridge and the movies, we hope Dr. Gilbreth solves it.

WINTER'S FINAL KICK

One swallow does not make a summer, they say. A few mild days in late winter or early spring, never prove that the good old summer time is hard upon us. Old Man Winter is like an army fighting a retreating campaign. He feels the forces against him are too strong for him, and he is gradually yielding this and that position.

But he is determined to die game. So he constantly swoops out from his Arctic defense, and creates havoc among unsuspecting enemies.

Climate is a kind of bad boy that will not behave just as you wish it to. In the main we have a good old climate here in Bristol. But if you have company, it may put on a show of bad temper. It is like the youth of the family, who is apt to put in his worst naughty streaks on the days when Aunt Jane has come for a visit.

Who would care for a climate that marched along the same day after day, without ever moving out of one tiresome rut?

The boys in the pool hall are still reeling from that final development at Flint, when 100,000 citizens were suddenly thrown into employment.

"Leisure to Repent"

by Ursula Parrott

SYNOPSIS

Gilbert Windon had been in love with lovely Denise Rendale from the moment he met her but she had eyes for no one except Keith Sheldie, handsome young playboy. However, Keith and Denise broke up when the irresponsible Keith does not offer to marry Denise upon learning of her father's financial ruin. Keith frankly explained that he was solely dependent upon his wealthy father, and to marry meant being disinherited. Denise's sister, Felicia, suggests that she marry "money" immediately as Felicia herself had done. The latter loved the late Duane Fenton but married the unexciting, though reliable, Eustace Gardiner Dayne when Duane failed her. When Gilbert proposes, Denise honestly tells him she loves someone else, but accepts him on the condition that the marriage be a formal one and, if at the end of a year she is not happy, he will free her. Keith is disturbed when he hears the news but does not believe Denise will go through with it. One day at breakfast, when his father is particularly domineering and disagreeable, Keith queries, "Why do you dislike me so?" "I dislike you because you are soft like your mother," came the reply. When Keith was only a year old, his mother had run away with her music teacher and had died shortly after. Since then, the embittered Sheldie, Sr., took his hurt out on his son, bending him to his will and preventing Keith from living his own life.

CHAPTER VIII

Through all the time he'd been growing up, the strangest knowledge grew in Keith beside the knowledge of that story! That he could not escape his father, just because his mother had left him left an arrogant man, in the prime of his life. He would be abandoning an old man who blustered a great deal, in the effort to conceal that he was broken, under the screen of his arrogance—had been broken, probably since a dark slender girl left his house and his fortune and his power.

Long since (probably at about the time of her death), his father had retired from active participation in all his companies, except the original steel-rail company in which he had intended his son to follow him; and even that he had given up, since Keith announced he meant to be a painter.

That single defiance he'd achieved; and he had the curious feeling that he could even play along as he liked, he could better manage to endure the years, and his slow-growing self-contempt for enduring them.

He had no inner security at all. His father's long clear dislike of him had prevented that. So though in his boyhood he'd sometimes meant to stick to his father out of a kind of loyalty, and a wish to "make up" to him for his long loneliness, he had been sure, for several years now, that he only stayed with the old man to make sure of his money, and amused himself meanwhile as well as he could.

He considered himself, in the occasional dreadful hours of self-appraisal no sensitive person escapes, a complete wrecking. He had long forgotten the beginning of the road that had taken him to the place he was—had forgotten the boy who loved and pitied his father, and forgave him so many things, for so many years. A thought that might have comforted him never occurred to him at all—that to have held constantly to a decision made when he was ten years old, implied a kind of strength.

The elder Sheldie laid down the newspaper again.

"Did you want to marry Denise Rendale?" he asked.

That surprised Keith. He was not aware that his father paid sufficient attention to his comings and goings to know with whom he spent his time. He was so surprised that he did not notice the form of the question immediately, and answered from his thoughts.

"You've tamed me to such a degree that I shouldn't think of anything as independent as marriage." "I don't want you to marry." "That I've known too, though you don't happen ever to have mentioned why."

He said that, as he had said earlier, "I wonder why you so dislike me." Nearly all his conscious life he'd said things like that, just to conceal the fact he did know the reasons, more or less.

His father's answer then, was not as expected. (It usually was; "You may as well be the little use your companionship is to me, considering what you've cost me.")

This time he said: "I'll all blow up—I mean—before your children would be grown. What's the use of marrying? You won't be able to leave them anything."

That, Keith knew, if he made an appropriate reply, would introduce one of those long discourses on "What's the country coming to" that his father enjoyed making. But instead he asked sharply: "Father, what did you mean by that? 'Did you want to marry Denise?'"

The question was echoing in his head suddenly, with Denise's final words to him: "I mean to marry Gilbert Windon."

His father said: "Her engagement's announced. Didn't you know?" He handed his son the newspaper.

There was Denise's picture, in the frock she wore at her debut, and "Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rendale announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Denise Evelyn." Odd, never to have known Denise had a middle name. The absurdity of that thought struck him, and he gasped.

His father said: "So—"

No, not under that old man's unkind amused eyes would he show—anything, anything at all! His face achieved, briefly, though he did not guess it, a grimace that Sheldie, Senior, then long-dead pretty Mary Lane.

He said: "The picture flatters Denise, rather. She's pretty, but not as pretty as that. Do you happen to have met her?"

His father's laugh boomed through the dining-room. That unaccustomed sound held approval, but Keith did not notice. He said, "Will you excuse me? I have an appointment," and went out without waiting for an answer.

But he went no farther than his own room.

So she had made safe, had chosen to let go their light happiness, the laughter they'd shared, and the hopes not spoken! She had been wise, sensible, a realist. He could not blame her, but only himself, what he had become.

She had meant it, when she'd said: "Not tomorrow or ever." He had not really believed she'd meant it until now. Her hand within his arm, her soft mouth against his—that was all there had been, or ever would be: a beginning with no ending.

"Soft," his father called him; a weakling, he called himself. Yet he could not remember that he had shed tears, since a boy ten years old had shed them with grief at his father's dreadful anger. But there were tears now on the thick lashes that he inherited from Mary Lane.

He heard his father's lame uneven steps along the corridor, stood up, flung his head back. His father knocked at the door. That courteous gesture was unusual!

He opened it. Very mildly his father said: "There is some business you could do for me in Chicago, Keith, if you could spare the time from your painting."

Keith stared at him. "Spare the time from his painting," that occupation, his father so constantly scorned. Yet there was no sign the old man was being ironic. He looked perfectly serious. "It's rather confidential. I'd rather send you than a lawyer."

As if he were trying to make him feel important!

Keith answered gruffly: "Certainly, I'll go if you like." So he did not see Denise again, until very near her wedding day.

On the morning that the papers held the announcement of Denise's engagement, Felicia was breakfasting in bed, trying not to be annoyed by the click-clack of her husband's riding-boots up and down her bare polished "modern" floor. As usual, he had breakfasted early and had ridden in the Park, hours before Felicia was awake.

He rode in the Park, when he could not ride in the country. He rode in the country, when he could not hunt. He hunted, when he could not steepchase. Occasionally he attended race meets, afterwards. He was large and blond, amiable as a puppy—and with a mind like a puppy's too, his wife sometimes thought when she was especially bored, though she knew the thought unjust. Eustace did have a kind of simple shrewdness, and odd flashes of insight that occasionally surprised her. Those flashes were what made her marriage just bearable.

Though she had become Mrs. Eustace Gardiner Dayne with her eyes open, she thought (with her heart in bits and pieces over Duane Fenton who'd loved her, but never enough to stop drinking) she had not been able to anticipate quite how dreadfully long the years of marriage without love could be.

Three of them gone; forty or fifty, perhaps, to live through.

Click, click, click, the heels of his riding-boots.

"Look here, Felicia, is this marriage of Denise going to be all right?"

"Why not?"

"I was thinking—looking at her picture, when I was having breakfast downstairs."

Felicia thought several things simultaneously. That what he was thinking he would tell her in his own due time, and she couldn't hurry him. That he always breakfasted downstairs so as not to disturb her, and came up afterward, tiptoeing heavily, to see whether she might be awake and would talk to him. That the sound of his tiptoeing was just sufficient to wake her, always.

RECIPES YOU'LL SURELY ENJOY

Plain Muffins

Two cups flour, three tablespoons sugar, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup milk, one egg, two tablespoons shortening. One cup whole wheat flour may be substituted for one cup white flour. Nuts, raisins, or dates may vary this basic recipe.

Sift flour, measure and sift twice with remaining dry ingredients. Mix liquid ingredients and combine with the dry. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full. Bake 15 minutes in a 400 degree oven for small muffins, allowing extra time for larger size. Makes 12 muffins.

Scalloped Tomatoes

Canned tomatoes are used in this cold weather vegetable dish.

One Spanish onion, three tablespoons shortening, two cups drained, canned tomatoes, one teaspoon baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup area crumbs.

Slice the onion and fry until a delicate brown in the fat. Add tomatoes, salt and sugar and pour into a greased casserole. Sprinkle crumbs over the top, dot with butter and bake until browned.

Rice Dessert

Delicious and splendid for the children is rice steamed in three times as much milk, using the double boiler. When all the milk is absorbed, add flavoring and mold in individual custard cups. Chill, then into dessert dishes and surround with sliced bananas and soft caramel custard.

DON'T FORGET FISH

There is a tendency to overlook the benefits and variety offered by fish. Storms at sea last month affected the supply of fresh fish, as well as late-coming ocean liners.

When fresh fish is costly, or inconvenient to buy, remember the excellent assortment of high-grade canned fish. A truly delicious party dish, particularly nice for luncheon, is made from crabmeat. It is one more valuable recipe which may be prepared in advance by the busy hostess.

Crab Cakes

Two cups crab meat, picked fine; one-half teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, shake of nutmeg, one teaspoon lemon juice, yolk of one egg, one teaspoon finely chopped parsley, one cup thick white sauce.

Mix ingredients in order given and cool. Shape in form of cakes, dip in crumbs, or in beaten egg and crumbs and fry in oil.

The White Sauce: Two and one-half tablespoons butter, one-fourth cup cornstarch, one-third cup flour, one cup milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, shake of white pepper.

Salmon Pie

One can salmon, one tablespoon butter, one scant tablespoon flour, one cup milk, salt, pepper, one tablespoon lemon juice, mashed potatoes.

Flake salmon. Prepare white sauce of blended butter, flour and scalded milk, stirring until smooth and thick. Season with salt and pepper. Add lemon juice to salmon and mix with sauce.

Butter a baking dish and fill partly with salmon mixture. Arrange mashed potato to form a crust and bake until lightly browned. For an extra nice shade, brush the top of mashed potato with beaten egg. Garnish with parsley. This dish also may be baked in individual portions.

POTATOES AND MILK SIGN UP TO DEFEAT RAW MARCH WINDS

Potatoes and milk form a nourishing combine that will help to ward off March chills or the bite of wintry winds. Cocks in Colonial days knew the value of these two standbys and used them in many a steaming dish without worry about postage.

Serve plates of this steaming chowder some bitter night, or try it as a luncheon dish.

Potato Chowder

Five cups diced potatoes, one chopped onion, one tablespoon finely-chopped parsley, two cups cold water, four tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one quart milk.

Wash and dice the potatoes, covering them with cold water if they must stand any length of time. When ready to start the chowder, cover them with the two cups cold water, add chopped onion and parsley and cook for 10 minutes. Melt the butter in separate saucepan, stir in flour gradually, add salt and shake of white pepper and blend thoroughly. Add the milk and cook until slightly thick, using double boiler, rather than saucepan for extra smoothness.

Combine both mixtures and let stand for 15 minutes. Reheat, garnish with parsley and serve piping hot with croutons, or crisp crackers. One or two slices of crisp bacon, crumbled in the chowder during the final heating, will add flavor.

This is an ideal dish for the busy mother, as it may be prepared in the morning and reheated at night. Recommended for the growing youngsters.

STATE NEWS

ALLENTOWN.—(INS)—Allentown has put the finishing touches on its drive against tin ball machines with the destruction of 30 seized by State Troopers in raids on Lehigh County and tax rooms.

The machines, valued at from $2,500 to $5,000 were reduced to a heap of kindling, wood and scrap metal after Judge Richard W. Lobst refused an indirect offer to "sell" the machines back to their former owners.

STATE COLLEGE.—(INS)—Because man can never master nature, floods will continue to take periodic tolls of life and property until residents of river valleys learn that they are trespassers and move out of danger spots. Prof. C. A. Bonine, Penn State College geologist predicts.

JEANNETTE, March 4.—(INS)—Frank Vederack, one of the boys who helped flash the name "Carlisle" across the nation's sports pages in pre-world war days, is a resident here, not far from the scene of his old triumphs, it was revealed.

Vederack, a Chippewa Indian, was one of Pop Warner's boys in 1911, '12, and '13, when that famous coach was a mentor at the noted Indian school, and was a teammate of the great Jim Thorpe.

Vederack, it was revealed, is employed in the train service department of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Back in the days when the Carlisle Indians turned out some of the nation's greatest football teams, Vederack played left end, along with Thorpe, Gus Welch, and Joe Guyon. He was born in Odanah, Wis., which also produced another famous alumnus, Chief Bender, one of the greatest pitchers on Connie Mack's all-star Philadelphia Athletics team.

FLOOD BRIDE WANTED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(INS)—Some feminine flood refugee, provided she can fill all the qualifications, is missing an opportunity for permanent relief—as a bride. C. E. Burke, 50, of Santa Rosa, Cal., wrote Mayor R. E. Overman seeking aid in finding a bride, preferably a flood refugee, between 35 and 42, a brunette and a non-smoker. There have been several applicants but none met all the requirements.

BULL AT NEWTOWN GOES ON A RAMPAGE

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 4.—Herman Hester's recalcitrant bull was dead today and a jittery countryside breathed easier.

The bull, Public Enemy No. 1 of Hester's herd near Newtown Pa., balked at mounting a butcher's truck and took to the tall grass.

Hester, knowing all too well the critter's propensity for using its horns, asked police to spread the alarm.

For more than a day, the bull spent his newly-found freedom terrifying housewives by bellowing through the fields and popping into dooryards.

Several boys saw it swim across the Delaware river to the New Jersey shore.

Tomatoes and employees scurried to shelter when the bull swam across the grounds of the State House for Girls on the outskirts of Trenton.

Armed pompos surrounded the animal yesterday afternoon in a wood at Ives Heights, two miles from here. State Trooper Frank Long tried to lasso it but it charged him.

Two bulls into its head at 15 feet and it kept right on coming.

Long took more careful aim at 20 feet and hit it between the eyes. A scersault and the bull's career was ended.

Carole Lombard says:

"Advised by my singing coach,
I changed to Luckies"

"In my new picture 'Swing High, Swing Low' I sing a song for the first time since I have been on the screen. To do this, I spent months taking singing lessons. And with this added strain, my throat was not in good shape. My singing coach suggested that when choosing cigarettes, I select a light smoke. And so I changed to Luckies. Since then I've found that a light smoke and my throat get along together just fine."

"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Lombard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

AWARD LITTLE WOLF BOUT OVER BILL SLEDGE

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 4.—Chief Little Wolf, Navajo Indian, was declared the victor in the feature bout last night at the Arena, but it was neither the strength nor the cunning of the Red Man that accounted for his triumph over Bill Sledge.

Sledge brought about his own downfall after 27 minutes of a hard wrestling when he hurtled through the ropes and rendered himself unconscious. Bill, after tucking Little Wolf's head between two strands of rope on one side of the ring, ran to the opposite side to prevent the referee from releasing the chief. Sledge sought to increase the tension by throwing his feet against the lower rope, but he missed and went hurtling through the air. In his fall Sledge's head struck one of the iron girders that support the ring and was knocked unconscious.

Referee Kelly counted Sledge out, and the latter had to be assisted to his dressing room. Dr. William V. Carroll examined Bill and decided he was in no condition to continue. Sledge complained of a sharp pain at the base of the spine and a bad headache.

The bout up to the time of the unfortunate mishap had been a thriller with both wrestlers handing out and absorbing considerable punishment. Little Wolf persisted in using most of the holds that are barred in the game, but Sledge did not complain. Bill, when the opportunity afforded itself, punished the Indian with a headlock and an assortment of forearm blows.

Little Wolf applied his Indian death lock only once, but Sledge slipped from the hold after knocking the Indian off balance.

BRISTOL AND MORRISVILLE LIKELY TO BE IN FINALS

By Louis Tomlinson
Bristol and Morrisville will no doubt meet in the finals of the Bucks County Tournament here Saturday night, for the County laurels this year, unless an unforeseen event occurs that will lead to an upset.

This was made possible when Quakertown left their varsity at home and the Bulldogs easily conquered the visitors' team last night 33-13 in the quarter finals.

Tonight Bristol will meet a vastly improved Bensalem five in the initial encounter with Morrisville and Newtown in the windup go.

Both Bristol and Morrisville should come through with easy victories but one never can tell what might happen in this tournament.

Increase Shown In Marriage Licenses

D. Worthington, Clerk of Orphans' Court.

As usual, however, the Bucks county marriage license bureau depended largely on non-resident business to keep them busy. Sixty-eight per cent of those granted licenses in February lived outside of Bucks county. Most of the non-residents came from Trenton and other New Jersey towns, and a great number came from Philadelphia.

There were 12 divorcees in the list of 176 applicants, including five who men and seven men. Fifty-two per cent of the female applicants said they had occupations other than housework when they made application for a marriage license.

The most popular marrying age in February seemed to be between 21 and 25 years, for approximately 70 per cent of the applicants were in that age range. Bristol, Bucks county's largest borough, furnished nine applicants in February, while Doylestown came second with eight.

Returns show that most of the people who were granted marriage licenses in February were married by Justices of the Peace in various sections of the county.

CONFLICTING EMOTIONS

SEATTLE, Wash.—(INS)—Joy turned into tragedy for Mrs. William Lackman. At almost the same hour she was married at Port Orchard, Wash. James Humphries, her four-year-old son by a former marriage fell from the houseboat of his uncle, Henry Woodward, into Lake Washington. He drowned before help reached him.

Guests included: the Misses Mary and Katharine Mulligan, Mary McCafferty, Rita Ferry, Frances Waters, Marie Hoffman, Dorothy McGinley, Gertrude Roe, Janice Singer, Mary Dugan, Frances and Margaret Duffy, Mrs. Pierce Crosby.

HELPFUL HINTS TO HOMEMAKER

Spare Your Hands
Good hot suds may be extremely useful for the hands, if the dishwasher is used at too high a temperature.

While it is important to use a mild soap for dishwashing, it is equally important to avoid using water that is too hot, if you would have soft, lovely hands. Too hot water may be bad for thin glasses, but it is even worse for the user, particularly in cold weather.

Experiments recently conducted by the household equipment division at the State College of Washington indicate that water at 135 degrees F. generally is the hottest that the hands can stand.

Home-Made Cottage Cheese

Cottage cheese now is bobbing up in recipes for pie, salad, and in cheese and nut loaf, as well as its popular place in sandwiches. With its growing use, comes news that it may be made at home.

A bit of junket tablet does the trick, making the milk curdle. Only a small portion is needed for one quart, since an entire junket tablet will handle three gallons of milk.

Dissolve the junket in cold water and stir carefully until it is evenly distributed through the milk. Let it stand 12 hours in room temperature. Strain off the liquid through a white cotton cloth, pressing all the moisture out of the curd. Place in a dish or bowl on which you can place a plate and weight.

Season the cheese with salt, add sweet cream and a dash of paprika. A few chopped chives are delicious in cottage cheese, and of course with chopped nuts or stuffed olives, it is unsurpassed for sandwiches and salads.

Another Saving

A sensible and ingenious hostess is freezing her refrigerator desserts in individual paper cups.

Not only do the small cups save time in freezing, but they are easier to serve and cut down the dishwashing.

This inspiration should be a boon to mothers who are planning a children's party.

Bigger Drumsticks

Even the chickens have to go on a diet now. A special diet has been evolved to grow bigger and better drumsticks and more white meat on roasting chickens. The chickens are allowed to roam on the range for 20 to 25 weeks before going on the fattening diet.

Sauce Takes Time

The secret of the rich tomato sauce for spaghetti, prepared by Italian experts in long slow cooking, is browning the chopped meat, onion and garlic clove in oil, and adding seasonings and Italian tomatoes, the sauce is simmered over a low fire from one to two hours. The longer the cooking the richer the sauce.

Beauty for Brick

If you have brick around your fireplace, or flagstone hearth, try rubbing it with a soft cloth which has been dampened with oil. Not only does this treatment remove dust without scattering it, but it seems to soften and season the brick.

CHEESE SOUFFLE AND VEGETABLE SALAD MEET IN LUNCHEON MENU

Luncheon, luncheon, what to have for a simple, but appetizing mid-day meal.

That problem seems to concern more homemakers than the planning of the substantial main meal. There are always egg dishes, of course, particularly this month, when eggs are much in demand.

Suggestion for a nourishing, well-balanced luncheon:

Cheese Souffle - Mixed Vegetable Salad

Tea, Hot Chocolate or Milk Cookies

Because the cheese dish is rich, the vegetable salad should have French dressing, rather than mayonnaise. Here is a choice in souffles, the number two recipe being less expensive and decidedly simple to make.

Cheese Souffle - 1.

Four tablespoons butter, or shortening; two tablespoons flour, one cup scalded milk, one-half teaspoon salt and shake of white pepper, one-half cup grated cheese, four eggs, yolks and whites being beaten separately.

Melt shortening, stir in flour and gradually add the scalded milk. Stir until thick and smooth. Add seasonings and grated cheese. Remove from the fire and add well-beaten egg yolks. Cool somewhat and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish, or into individual ramekins. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven. The souffle is improved also by baking in a pan of water. This quantity should serve four.

Cheese Souffle - 2.

Three-fourths cup bread crumbs, one cup grated cheese. Pour one cup hot milk over the crumbs. Add cheese, the beaten yolk of one egg, dash of salt, and one teaspoon melted butter. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Bake in a hot oven 20 to 30 minutes.

Delicious and splendid for the children is rice steamed in three times as much milk, using the double boiler. When all the milk is absorbed, add flavoring and mold in individual custard cups. Chill, turn into dessert dishes and surround with sliced bananas and soft caramel custard.

MORRISVILLE FIVE MOVES STEP NEARER CO. CROWN

By Louis Tomlinson
Coach John Hoffman's Blue and Gold quintet from Morrisville moved a step nearer the Bucks County crown when they easily defeated Quakertown in the quarter-finals here last night, 33-13.

Quakertown practically forfeited the game when they reserved the varsity for the P. I. A. A. tournament in which they meet Bristol at Norristown on Friday night. Of course the second team had no show against the title defenders during the fray at any time. This was proven when Morrisville stepped out to an early lead of 8-0 at the end of the initial canto and stretched it to 13-0 before Quakertown netted a single tally. Once the Bulldogs amassed that lead they were unbeatable and the outcome was never in doubt from that point on.

Field goals by Reitzel and Gavin plus a pair by Wilson coupled with foul goals by Reitzel and Gavin, gave the Bulldogs their first period points. This gave the Blue and Gold an 8-0 lead as the canto closed.

Their margin was soon stretched to 13-0 and to 17-4 at the end of the half. Byer opened the second period drive with a shot from past the white line and followed up with a foul toss after Reitzel netted two points, making it 13-0. At this juncture Feigley received a pass and scored under the net for the first points for the "Little Quakers." Gavin then sank a field and foul goal before Long hit the cords for a double dunker for the Black and White. The score now stood 16-4. Baehr added a foul to Morrisville's total before the whistle blew.

In the third period Bucky Wallace, rangy guard, netted a neat pair of double dunks, both scored from beyond the white line. These together with Byers' duet of twin pointers increased the winners tally to 25, but Mike Bitner sank a floor shot for the losers and fouls by Buzby and Wenhold added four points to the Quakertown margin, but Morrisville led 25-8 at the start of the concluding period.

Wallace continued his scoring pace again in the final chapter by netting another pair of neat field goals mixed with two-pointers by Gavin and Reitzel to give the winners their final markers. Bitner added a pair of floor shots and a foul by Buzby before the period ended making the final score 33-13.

BENSALEM TROUNCES FIVE FROM YARDLEY HIGH

By Jack W. Gill

The big blue Bensalem "Owls" took the opener of last night's tournament fray held at the local gym from a weak Yardley quintet by a 27 to 9 count. Bruce McKensy of the winners went on the rampage during the third quarter and sank six field goals of which all were of the sensational variety.

Trailing at half-time by a 9 to 4 score the Yardley five began heaving them wild. The best they could do was to throw four home run balls—over the backboard. To the crowd the only spine tingling thrill came when the gun went off at half time. This awoke them from their adventures with Morpheus in order to witness a grand second game.

The remaining tournament frays promise to be packed with thrills and tense rivalry. The semi-finals take place on the local wooden way this evening while the finals are to be fought Saturday. Dancing will follow each contest.

SUBURBAN GIRLS VIE FOR FOUL-THROW HONORS

The fifth annual Girls' Interscholastic Foul Throw Tournament, scheduled for Saturday in the Central Y. M. C. A., 1421 Arch street, Philadelphia, will be keenly contested. From present indications, all past events will be surpassed.

Among the 33 teams and 100 individual entries already filed are many suburban schools.

Suburban schools have always played a prominent part in this well-known affair, having made excellent records and enviable reputations.

Mildred Hinkle, of Quakertown High School, holds the individual record for the affair, making 22 goals in 25 attempts, in 1934. Last year's winner, Grace Friel, of West Catholic High School, Philadelphia, fell short of tying Miss Hinkle's record by a solitary goal, making 21 good tries.

Lu last year's event, Anna Stecula, of Chester High School, finished in a tie for second place with 20 successful markers. Margaret Raimondi, of Norristown High, captured sixth prize. Pauline Nayoli, of Bristol High, took down seventh prize. Beatrice Richard and Arlene Bieler, of East Greenville High, won eighth and ninth place awards, respectively.

East Greenville High and Sellersville-Perkasie High Schools finished high in the team ratings, third and fourth, respectively.

The most proficient girl players in this section take part and the awards are keenly contested. With an unusually large number of excellent girls' teams in the section this year, the competition is expected to set up some new records.

Among the more prominent suburban schools entered are: East Greenville, Sellersville-Perkasie, Lower Merion, Bristol, Quakertown, Norristown, Springfield of both Delaware and Montgomery counties; Haverford, St. Katherine's of Wayne, Lansdowne, Villa Maria Academy, Lansdale, St. Vincent's, and Mercy Academy.

A TOO VIVID DREAM

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.—(INS)—Willie Page, 30, Coter, Mo., is nursing bruises he suffered when he leaped from a second story window while dreaming the Mississippi flood had inundated this eastern Arkansas town and was sweeping the house away. Page, who was working at New Madrid at the time of the barge disaster there which took more than a score of lives, explained he jumped from the window when he dreamed he felt the flood washing the house from its foundation.
